Isn't it funny how something so small & insignificant can be so catastrophized? Since when is it a crime to call 911 when one feels a potential threat or in danger? Today I was informed that a total of 8 calls have been made to 911 within 2 years. Seems like, to outsiders, that something is wrong with a household that resorts to making emergency calls for any dilemma. However, most of those calls were during my pregnancy (complications), & the remaining were all warranted! How funny ~~people~~ ^{people} are for jumping to conclusions ^(again) about a situation before even attempting to understand the unique circumstances contributing to it. A valuable insight I have developed in all of this is ~~to refrain from pre-judging~~ ~~and~~ to refrain from pre-judging human beings, ~~and~~ ^{and} to avoid looking for the worst in someone or in someone's life, as it ~~does not~~ does not define ~~ones~~ one's worth, or summarize who they are entirely.

How funny people are for jumping to conclusions again about a situation before even attempting to understand the unique circumstances contributing to it. A valuable insight I have developed in all of this is to refrain from prejudging human beings, and to avoid looking for the worst in someone or in someone's life, as it does not define one's worth, or summarize who they are entirely.
